

Strengthening Families. Inspiring Youth.

Does your child need assistance with identifying bullying behaviors, victim empathy, personal boundaries and self-control? If so, the Youngest at Heart classes (8 to 12 years of age) fosters ethical, responsible, and caring young people by modeling social and emotional learning, and appreciation for diversity into developmentally appropriate practices and curriculum for young children. Students will also identify why children bully and provide solutions on how to deal with bullying behavior. In these small groups, we provide a safe atmosphere and compassionate climate. Students are able to listen and share with each other, communicating ways they are affected by their actions and behaviors of another individual.

It is the Center's passion to instill in our students important core, ethical, and civic values. These values include, but are not limited to, respect, responsibility, integrity, perseverance, courage, justice and self-discipline.

Criteria for the Youngest at Heart program:

- Ages 8-12
- Truancy, Harassment
- Interfering with school staff
- Social inappropriateness
- Poor social competence

Risk Factors:

- Early and persistent antisocial behavior
- Friends who engage in the problem behavior
- Academic failure beginning in elementary school

We provide assistance to families before the situation Erupts into a Crisis.
